New York Gangs Kill One, Wound One

NEW YORK (AP)—A feud between two teen-age gangs erupted in violence in the crowded Brooklyn theater district Monday night. One boy was killed and another wounded.

Four boys, captured after a five-block chase, were charged with homicide early today.

Dead was Tony Labanchino, 17, John Lombardi, also 17, was shot in the hand.

The four arrested were Carl Clinton, 18; Carlos Reyes, 17; Melvin Torres, 18, and Israel Marvros, 17.

Police said that Labanchino, Lombardi and an unidentified boy with them were members of the "Sands" SLU. They had been playing a pinball machine in an amusement arcade.

They walked outside and met five youths, members of a rival gang, "The Mail Males." There had been clashes between the gangs lately, police said.

Suddenly one of the Mail Males pulled a .22 caliber pistol and fired four times. Two shots struck Labanchino in the face. A third struck Lombardi and a fourth shattered a window of the amusement building.

Police said the four boys arrested are Puerto Ricans.

Feild Named to Group for UA Probe

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The special seven-member House committee to investigate "rumors and reports" concerning state-supported higher education institutions was appointed yesterday by Speaker Eugene C. Fleeman.

Fleeman designated Rep. J. H. Moody of White County, as chairman of the group. Moody was "author of a resolution calling for the committee and for the investigation."

The resolution apparently was directed at the University of Arkansas although the institution was not mentioned.

The resolution substituted for an earlier one from Moody Under the name of a resolution, university spokesmen would have been required to appear before the House committee on charges of racial-mixing and other matters.

Besides Moody, Fleeman named to the committee Reps. Talbot, Feild Jr. of Hempstead, Chadd L. Durrett of Union, George W. Stagg of Monroe, Marion H. Crunk of Little River, March J. Howell of Phillips and Raymond L. Mays of Cleveland.

Fleeman said he tried to select members who live at a distance from the University of Arkansas and from Arkansas State College at Jonesboro, which is seeking university status.

Moody is a supporter of Arkansas State but has said that his resolution has nothing to do with the legislative battle over the proposed promotion for the Jonesboro school.

The House also defeated a bill to prohibit the use of paste-in stickers in a write-in campaign.

Such stickers were used widely in last November's general election when Roy Dale Alford (D-Ark.) unseated the veteran Brooks in the 5th District congressional race.

The Senate approved a new bill to set up patient quotas at the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock. Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton the author, said the new bill would meet the objections of Pulaski County officials who attacked a similar bill passed two years ago. The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled that act invalid.

Harvey said his new plan would give city and county officials the right to say which patients should be admitted.

Bills to Reopen Schools Before the Legislature

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Bills to permit the reopening of schools closed in the integration controversy were introduced today in the Arkansas Legislature advanced toward session adjournment two weeks hence.

One such bill was beaten down in the House late yesterday. Another, said to have the approval of Gov. Orval E. Faubus was introduced in the Senate.

The House bill, by Rep. Sterling Cookhill of Pulaski County, would have permitted residents of a district in which a school had been closed to petition for a special election on the question of reopening the school to the jurisdiction of the district's board.

The only such closed schools in Arkansas are in Little Rock, and Pulaski County's delegation fought for passage of the bill. But opponents argued that the proposal would "undo all that we did in the recent special session," and their argument prevailed.

The new bill in the Senate was signed by the three senators from Pulaski County. It would require the Little Rock School Board to reopen the four closed high schools and leave it up to the board whether the schools were integrated or not. The proposal does not disturb the governor's power to close schools in the face of forced integration.

Faubus observed that the bill seemed to be in line with his proposed constitutional amendment to provide local option on segregation.

The controversial general appropriations bill also came up in both the House and Senate again yesterday, and the story was about the same. The Senate defeated, 23-3, a revised version of the bill that sets up budgets for all of the state's constitutional officers.

The House expunged from its record a vote last week which defeated the appropriations bill, then passed the proposal back on the calendar.

Rep. Marion Crank of Little River County, co-chairman of the budget committee, said he probably would call up the bill tomorrow for amendment. Representatives indicated they would have dozens of amendments ready.

A heated revolt against the "Old Guard" in the House failed when Rep. Grover C. Carnes of Arkansas County called up his bill to limit the term of office on the Legislative Council, a branch of the General Assembly. The bill was defeated.

The bill would have set four years as the length of time any member could serve on the Council and the effect would have been to remove a majority of the members, including some of the most influential members of the Assembly.

The Senate also defeated a bill to prohibit the use of paste-in stickers in a write-in campaign.

Such stickers were used widely in last November's general election when Roy Dale Alford (D-Ark.) unseated the veteran Brooks in the 5th District congressional race.

To Call Toad Suck, Ashmore Landing

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A resolution to change the name of Toad-suck Ferry on the Arkansas River to "Ashmore Landing" was adopted today by the Arkansas House.

The change would be in dubious honor of Harry S. Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette.

Milley Rep. John O. Moore and St. Francis Rep. Charles Kinney introduced the resolution, which now goes to the Senate.

A majority of House members apparently thought the resolution was offered in jest, but Moore said he would actually pursue the name change.

The resolution directs the State Highway Department to post a sign, nameplates and markers to effect the change of name.

The Gazette editorially opposed the state's recent acquisition of the ferry which operates at Toad-suck.

ABA Recognizes Widespread U.S. Court Criticism

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Bar Assn. approved a report in a stormy session today that calls for stronger internal security laws and acknowledges there has been widespread criticism of some Supreme Court decisions.

The House of Delegates, policy-making body of the ABA, defeated motions at its midwinter meeting to delete critical references to several Supreme Court decisions dealing with Communist activity and internal security.

The delegates also took a stand in favor of a loyalty oath requirement for government employees and deportation of aliens who are or become members of the Communist Party.

Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States, has resigned from the Association, and reportedly because of earlier ABA criticism of several high court decisions dealing with Communist activities.

The House of Delegates Monday deferred action on the controversial report until Tuesday shortly after it was presented to the 246-man body.

The measure, approved last Saturday by the ABA Board of Governors, cites criticism of several Supreme Court decisions dealing with subversion and Communist activities in this country. While it refrains from direct attack on the high court, it asks that Congress enact laws dealing with those subjects.

The internal security resolution has aroused widespread interest because of published news stories that similar reports prepared but never passed by the NBA House of Delegates led to the resignation from the ABA of Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States.

Lawmaker May Take His Son Off Payroll

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Rep. Steven V. Carter (D-Iowa) says he made a mistake in judgment in putting his 19-year-old college freshman son on his congressional payroll at $11,873 a year, the Des Moines Register said today.

In a copyrighted story from its Washington bureau, the newspaper quoted Carter as saying "I'm afraid I didn't have this thing in very good perspective and I'm going to correct it."

"I've made a mistake of judgment on this matter," the newspaper quoted Carter, "and I am going to adjust it within a few days."

"I've been ill with cancer and Steven has been carrying a lot of the load for me. My illness and the fact that I was told that I might not live many weeks probably resulted in my making a misjudgment as to what I should pay Steve."

The freshman congressman said previously his son, a law student at George Washington University, had the best qualifications of applicants as his chief assistant.

Carter told the Register he had received numerous letters from Iowa and "it is about 60-40 against me."

The newspaper further quoted Carter as saying that because of the reaction he felt it was "time to lay things on the line and tell the people about my physical condition which I am sure influenced my actions."

The congressman said treatment has been successful. He added that doctors told him if the cancer does not attack a vital organ he probably can keep it controlled and live out a normal life.

"I'm feeling fine again," Carter was quoted.

The newspaper said Carter wants to keep his son on the payroll at a sharply reduced salary but that he hasn't decided yet whether to do this. He said the family did not need the money.

She smiled. Her teeth were very good. "Glad to have you with us, Mr. Bennett."

THE STORY: Jim Bennett, a private detective, has been called to the Buckeye Abrasives Company plant in an effort to learn if sabotage is the cause of defective grinding wheels which appear in the company's output. Just as Bennett is talking to Howard Ackerman, an executive officer, a man in a Toledo has been killed by one of the defective wheels.

A man had been killed because of a person, somewhere in the Buckeye factory. To me it was murder. Not deliberate, maybe, but premeditated. But the actions of one person had caused the death of another. Maybe the law would call it manslaughter, and maybe it would be shrugged off as just another industrial accident, another statistic.

If a drunken slob behind the wheel of a car kills a decent man, the slob is punished, naturally, to the extent of the law. But the punishment does not bring back the life he has taken, and eventually the slob is free to kill again. To me, that's murder, too, even though it was not committed for any of the four common reasons of love, hate, revenge, gain.

"I'm with you," I said. "Good. He wiped his face with a handkerchief. I saw the relief and the hope in his eyes. Was his last chance. And suddenly he was broke. 'Okay. Well, check you in. I'm sure we can trust you to be faithful. We don't his unbuttoned shirt collar. His thick brown hair was heavily combed and his gray eyes were clear and intelligent. I missed him to be in his late twenties. As we shook hands Ackerman remained to him that I'd been hired by the Cleveland district manager. That I'd had previous experience in selling grinding wheels and was therefore to skip the sales training. Mr. Bennett will have no schedule, Ackerman said. "He is strictly on his own and will have full access to the plant. I know, Phil, that I can count on your department to give him full cooperation."

"Of course, Howard," Varney said. "I introduced me to his staff. It consisted of a female secretary named Miss Hewitt and a male assistant, Miss Hewitt was middle-aged and plump. The assistant, whose name was Stilling, was a fresh-faced, crew-cut young man almost painfully Ivy League. He shook my hand with executive firmness and said he was glad to have me aboard. Then Varney led me into his office and said, almost apologetically, 'While you're here, you might as well meet Mr. Quincey. He's not really a member of my staff, but since his office is adjacent to mine you will no doubt be seeing him. He's our chief ceramic engineer in charge of product quality, but is also the director of safety, which lies in with personnel functions.'"

"I see," I said politely. "Varney opened a door, led me down a short passageway and into a small, cluttered office where a man sat behind an incredibly cluttered desk. The man stood up as we entered. He needed a shave and his white shirt needed laundering. He wore a wrinkled tan suit and looked a little tired. If he had a hangover, his name was Lawrence Quincey. When we were again in Varney's office and I was seated, Varney said, 'So you've had previous sales experience in the abrasive field?'"

"I nodded, remembering what Ackerman had told his secretary. 'I was with Blue Ridge Grinding. A good outfit,' Varney said. 'By the way, Howard said you were to skip the sales training—are you to also skip the aptitude tests?'"

"Mr. Ackerman didn't mention any tests," I said, "but I'm sure we can skip them. 'No point in them since you're already hired.' 'You're stuck with me, even if I'm a pathological misfit.' Varney sat behind his desk and his gaze was friendly. 'What's your first name?'"

"Jim," I said. "Glad to have you aboard, Jim."

"I'm glad to be aboard," I said sincerely. "Varney opened a drawer and took out a printed form and placed it on top of his desk, which except for a telephone, was bare."

"I said, 'I see you're a clean desk man.' 'That's right,' he said cheerfully. 'But you should see the stuff jammed into the drawers.' 'You'll never get ahead that way,' I said. 'A desk piled with papers is almost as important as staying in the office until after the boss leaves.'"

"But how can you be sure the boss knows you're so interested in your job that you're working after hours?" Varney was still grinning.

"There are several schools of thought, but the best method is to park your car near the boss's right beside the door. Then, hell, know that you're still staying away with the boss."

"Now about doing your job a little better than you're expected to do, it?" Varney asked. "Doesn't that help?"

"I waved a hand carelessly. 'That's for squares. The main thing is to make the boss think you're doing a good job—and always protect yourself with memos.' Varney's grin faded. "Just kidding," I said hastily. "I lied about everything but my birth date. Social Security number, education and marital status. Which was bachelor. I inverted references, places of previous employment, former salaries and earnings. When it was over and I'd signed various forms, Philip Varney handed me a slip authorizing a physical examination by a Maple Hill doctor and stood up. 'I'll take you back to Howard's office.'"

"I then find it I stood, too. At the door I turned to face him. 'What's Mr. Quincey's trouble?' Or am I speaking out of turn?" Varney grinned crookedly. "I wondered if you noticed. We're all concerned about Larry. He sighed. 'You may as well know, I guess now that you're working for Buckeye.'"

"Boozer?" I said. "Varney nodded. 'Larry's a good man, but right now he's under emotional stress, a personal problem. We feel sorry for him and so far have kept the situation from Mr. Masters.'"

"Is he married?" "Yes—that's his trouble. 'Another man?' I asked. "Men," Varney corrected me wryly.

The door to Howard Ackerman's office was closed. I knocked and entered. Then I stood still, embarrassed. It is always a little embarrassing to surprise a man and a woman, indulging in private love-making, and that is what Ackerman and Mrs. Donovan had obviously been doing.

Ackerman turned away, taking a fit of coughing, while Mrs. Donovan began to type briskly. "All finished with Personnel, Bennett? There was a faint smudge of lipstick on his chin. "Yes, I'm sorry, I barged in like that."

"Quite all right. I was just—uh—going over some papers with Mrs. Donovan."

I followed him into his office. He closed the door and sat at his desk. I picked a chair and stretched out my legs. "I would like to see the body of the man who was killed in Toledo, and to inspect the machine he was operating."

He frowned. "I can't see what good that will do. The trouble is here."

I said evenly, "Mr. Ackerman, when I take a job I do it my own way."

He frowned again. "Aren't you?"

Couple Held in Death of Daughter

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sheriff J. Frank Holt said today that Houston Prossley Buck, a 24-year-old truck driver, and Mrs. Buck, 22, were being held on charges in connection with the death of their seven-week-old daughter last week.

The child, Catherine, was dead when her parents took her to University Hospital last Wednesday. Physicians said the baby's body was covered with bruises.

Holt quoted the father as saying he struck the child and bit her in an effort to make her stop crying.

Holt said he would not file charges until Dr. Howard A. Dishongh, the coroner, completes an investigation and files a medical report.

"Sometimes," I admitted, wondering if Mrs. Donovan really enjoyed Ackerman's attentions, as if she were merely being nice to the boss.

"You were highly recommended, but I'm beginning to wonder at the wisdom of my choice." There was a faint edge to Ackerman's voice. "After all, we're paying you, and we expect to get our money's worth."

There was a knock on the door. I said gently, "You'd better wipe that lipstick off your chin."

Price Support to Arkansans Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm price support payments to an Arkansas firm came in for heavy criticism from Sen. John J. Williams (R-Mo.) in the Senate yesterday.

But the Arkansas firm quickly replied that Williams had his facts mixed.

The senator said the Producers Rice Mills, Inc., of Stuttgart, Ark., received $1,400,000 in support payments. He labeled the program "little more than a government guarantee on the operations of corporate type farming."

At Stuttgart, Howard Alderson, secretary-manager of Producers, said the support payments actually went to some 400 member growers.

Williams had contended the support program actually encourages and underwrites absentee ownership to the detriment of the small farmers. Williams also read a long list of other 1957 price supports ranging from above $100,000 to more than one million dollars.

He listed among others these 1957 price supports:

Rice
George Smith and tenants of De Witt, Ark., $216,369.
Craighead Rice Milling Co. of Jonesboro, Ark., $184,894.
H. B. Byrum Cooperative Co. of Detroit, Ark., $183,783.
Alice Slaney Farms of Jerome, Ark., $114,416.
Cottick
J. G. Adams & Son of Hughes, Ark., $120,443.
Miller Lumber Co. of Marianna, Ark., $233,319.
Tillar & Co. of Tillar, Ark., $110,360.

In the automotive business, "shell" is the body of a car. And it's easier to be fooled by these auto body shells than by the old shell game. The plain fact is this: Every medium-priced car but one uses a body shell shared with a low-priced car, the lowest-priced car in the line. The one middle-priced car that uses its own exclusive body specifically designed to give you more than low-priced-car value is Mercury. And what a tremendous difference this exclusive Mercury body shell makes!

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Apparently, the Little Rock School Board will be offered different plans for reopening the city's four closed public high schools when it meets Thursday night.

The board's agenda released today, calls for a report on a plan by James T. Karam, a Little Rock clothier and an associate of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

This plan presumably is one proposed by an Interracial Emergency Committee with which Mr. Karam is connected.

Designed for use only if schools are racially integrated, the plan calls for health tests for students, segregation by sex in school facilities, achievement tests and grade placement as a result of such tests.

Karam was not available for comment on his scheduled appearance before the board.

Traffic Judge Robert W. Lester, a member of the school board, is expected to submit at the meeting his proposal for reopening the schools. They were closed by order of the governor last Sept. 12 in a move to avert court-ordered integration.

Lester would have the board ask parents to return the schools to board control. Then the board would reopen them on a segregated basis in defiance of federal integration orders.

Lester also is expected to propose to the board that any new teacher contracts contain a clause invalidating the contracts in case of enforced school integration.

A spokesman for the Capital Citizens Council said Lester would make a talk about his proposals at a meeting of the pro-segregationist organization tonight.

MacMillan Is Sightseeing in Russia

By HAROLD K. MILKS
MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, emerging from two days of talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, threw cold water today on the West's plan for a four-power meeting on Germany.

Khrushchev told a political rally in the Kremlin that the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France cannot discuss German reunification because "this is a question for the two German states themselves."

A four power meeting at the foreign minister level, as suggested by the West, might increase instead of reduce international tension, Khrushchev declared.

Khrushchev conceded that the four powers could discuss prevention of militarism in West and East Germany. But the lion roared the Soviet stand that reunification should be settled only by the Germans themselves.

He also repeated the Soviet proposal for a conference of heads of government of all those nations that waged war against Hitler in World War II to work out a treaty with Germany.

The Western powers rejected this proposal in their recent notes calling for a four-power meeting on Germany at the foreign ministers level.

Welcomes New Business Here

Khrushchev warned that any violation of the East German borders in the dispute over West Berlin would be considered an act of aggression against the Warsaw Pact powers.

While Khrushchev was speaking in the Kremlin, the visiting Macmillan was sightseeing.

Macmillan called off a hunting trip scheduled for Wednesday, and planned a full day of informal talk with the Soviet leader at the British Embassy's villa outside Moscow.

The sightseeing today was with a purpose, a motor trip 90 miles northeast of Moscow to look over the world's largest atom-smasher — the 10-billion-volt synchrotron at the Atomic Research Institute at Dubna.

Among the chief researchers at the institute is Italian-born scientist Bruno Pontecorvo, who slipped out of England in October 1950 to work in the Soviet Union. He and Macmillan were not expected to meet.

Moscow newspapers gave Macmillan the warmest reception since his arrival Saturday. The Communist party organ Pravda and government paper Izvestia carried front page photographs of Monday's formal meeting between the two leaders and devoted nearly two of their six pages to recounting Macmillan's activities and speeches.

The papers and Moscow radio also gave full play to Monday night's dinner at the British Embassy, where Khrushchev hailed Macmillan as a man of peace.

Macmillan opened his speech with a tribute to Red Army Day and the Soviet role in winning World War II.

"We continue to cherish the glorious memory of those heroic days," he said. "When I ponder the present state of the world, I

Group Would Censure U. S. High Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Society of the Sons of the American Revolution last night adopted a resolution censuring the United States Supreme Court.

Approximately 25 members unanimously approved the resolution.

The resolution criticized the court for "usurpations which it has committed in cases involving subversion, intervention, with the investigating and law-making of Congress and of the states in the anti-subversive field and in the unconstitutional course of conducting the integration cases."

The resolution was signed by John E. Harris of Fort Smith, president, and Alexander H. Smith of Calico Rock, secretary.

The first Federal tort, captured by Southern troops acting under orders of the Civil War was the U. S. Government barracks in what is now MacArthur Park, Little Rock and that was months before Port Sumner was fired upon by units of the Confederacy.

Today a common interest of at least myself whether we have not least equal degree. This common days," he said. "When I ponder interest is peace."

Khrushchev expressed regret that "it has not been possible to TWEEN Britain and the U.S.S.R. that "It has not been possible to uphold the wartime alliance between Britain and the U. S. S. R. in the postwar world."

But he said the Soviets "think that the conversations between us will bring results, we think you want agreement even if all obstacles cannot be solved at once."

City Recorder Is Locked Out of Office

POCAHONTAS, Ark. (AP) — When Mrs. Loretta Jarrett elected city clerk and recorder at the November election, arrived at her office yesterday she found:

The lock on the door had been changed and she was unable to open it.

On the door was a handwritten sign saying the office had been closed by order of the mayor.

Mrs. Jarrett said that last week Mayor Jerry Burrow had asked for a key to the office and she refused.

Before Mrs. Jarrett's election, Mrs. Lolla Blankenship had handled the office under appointment by the mayor and the City Council. A dispute had reportedly arisen between Mrs. Jarrett and Mrs. Blankenship over who was entitled to the office.

Mrs. Jarrett wouldn't say what she planned to do and Burrow refused to discuss the matter.

FBI Arrests Man for Auto Theft

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A North Little Rock man wanted on a charge of transporting a stolen car from Paris, Tex., to near Prescott, Ark., was arrested here yesterday by FBI agents.

He was identified as Paul Edgar Gangloff, 24.

J. J. Casper, special agent in charge of the FBI at Little Rock, said Larry Richard Nichols, 22, of Penna. Ill., also is charged with Gangloff. Nichols is in custody of the sheriff's office at Newport.

The offense occurred on or about Jan. 29, Casper said.

Gangloff was held in Pulaski County Jail for a hearing before a U. S. Commission at Little Rock.

American Captures Hearts of Japs

TOKYO (AP) — A lone American who spent two months aboard Japan's anti-atomic expedition ship Soya has captured the hearts of his Japanese companions.

"He is a quiet American! In a good sense," wrote an expedition member in a dispatch published in the influential newspaper Asahi.

The headline was "Thank you for your troubles, Mr. Meloy." Daniel J. Meloy, 38, a U. S. State Department official at Chevy Chase, Md., boarded the Soya at Capetown two months ago as an observer for the U. S. branch of the International Geophysical Year. The Soya returned to that African port today.

Meloy is in the State Department's section dealing with Japanese. He speaks Japanese.

The Japanese team is composed of 37 scientists headed by Prof. Takashi Nagai of Tokyo University.

Port Smith was established in 1917 and named for Gen. Thomas A. Smith.

Our Apologies, Mr. Cox — Editor The Star: I wish to acknowledge with my profound thanks the receipt of a copy of The Hope Star for February 19, 1959, containing the article and picture of the Waukesha. This steamboat because of its unique history has long been a source of historical interest to me and I appreciate your reprinting of this in the article. To suggest one false impression, however, I would like to state that my father, Ernest H. Cox, is still living with residences both in Prescott and Fulton. My grandfather, with whom you perhaps confused him, was W. B. Cox and is now dead.

It seems almost useless to say that my family and I have long read and respected the Hope Star. It is the principal voice and recorder of the region, which I still refer to as "home." So, I again want to thank you for your thoughtfulness in sending to me a copy of your newspaper.

Bob Pettit Is Close to New Pro Record

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks' Bob Pettit continues to close in rapidly on George Yardley's National Basketball Assn. single season scoring record.
With 11 games to go, Pettit has 1,765 points and needs 237 more to better the mark of 2,001 Yardley set with Detroit last season according to league statistics released today.
In the scoring race itself, Pettit has widened his lead to 172 points over Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors. Jack Twyman of Cincinnati is third with Clint Ferguson of St. Louis and Minneapolis rookie, Elgin Baylor rounding out the top five.
The leaders also are unchanged in other departments. Ken Sears of New York sets the pace in field goal percentage with .490. Bill Sharman of Boston in free the top. North Carolina, leader in last week's poll, got past its toughest rival, North Carolina State, then stumbled and lost to Maryland 69-51. # Cincinnati Keeps Rolling With Oscar

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati held a firmer grip on the college basketball scoring lead today following a hectic night in which red-hot Kentucky overcame a deep freeze and Bailey Howell of Mississippi State took a Southeastern Conference scoring mark.
Robertson whipped in 28 points to lead the Bearcats to their 13th straight victory, 92-69 over Tulsa. Oscar's output was only three less than the entire Kentucky team compiled in turning back snail Alabama 39-32.
Howell had 23 points as Mississippi State rode over Tulane 65-51. That boosted Howell's career total to 2,024 points, breaking the record of 2,002 set by Bob Pettit at Louisiana State.
Despite Robertson's performance, Cincinnati had a tough time setting past Tulsa. The Bearcats led by only three points with six minutes to go, then racked up 11 straight points to move to their 10th Mississippi Valley victory against no setbacks.
Kentucky, back in the No. 1 spot in the latest Associated Press poll, was hampered by Baylor's deliberate style and wound up in a 23-all deadlock at halftime. But the Wildcats started the second half with a nine-point scoring sprint before Alabama hit its first field goal.
Mississippi State clinched at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference title and a berth in the NCAA Championships. But because of Mississippi's segregation custom, State may not take part in the tournament.
Auburn was beaten by Tennessee 56-55.
In the Big Ten, Iowa moved into sole possession of second place by defeating Purdue 66-62 as Pat Schreiber scored six points late in the game. Michigan whipped last place Wisconsin 87-63. Ohio State rebounded from a humiliating 124-92 setback by beating Indiana 62-53 and North Western, holding Minnesota star Ron Johnson to 19

Another Try at Legalized Spa Gambling

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Another effort will be made to get a statewide election on whether gambling should be legalized in the Hot Springs area.
A Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce committee met yesterday with Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Dr. Martin Elisei, chamber president, said the governor agreed to help.
The group hopes to get the proposal on the 1960 general election proposal, Elisei said.
"Two efforts in 1957 by Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs to get action on a legalized gambling bill, Hurst will draw up the new proposal, Elisei said.
"During the 1957 Legislature, Hurst introduced a bill to legalize gambling in Garland County and then withdrew it after heavy criticism was aimed at it.
"Later, Hurst introduced a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to legalize gambling. The resolution died in a committee," Elisei said details of the new proposal had not been worked out.
"We'll leave that to our legislative delegation," he said. "We're simply concerned with the best interests of Hot Springs and Garland County and are neutral in the matter. Let's make it (gambling) legal or stop it."
Gambling is traditionally carried on in the resort city despite state laws against it.
Elisei said the chamber was not concerned with liquor sales or matters other than gambling.
